We’re here to learn from each other.

Even though encountering conflicting ideas and opinions is an essential feature of an academic community, it can be difficult. At U-M, we are at our best when our discussions are inclusive and welcoming to differing viewpoints. It challenges our way of thinking and helps us grow.

Learn more about creating and maintaining a respectful environment on campus, visit expectrespect.umich.edu